

STARRING — DOLLY!

Carol Channing (left) welcomes Ginger Rogers as new Dolly, August 1965.

Ginger's last night, February 1967: her successor will be Martha Raye (uniformed from Vietnam tour).

Betty Grable as Betty Grable: she was Dolly July-November 1967.

Pearl Bailey opens in an all-black version, encouraged by Carol Channing, November 1967.

Hello, Phyllis Diller: goodbye, Pearl Bailey (changeover December 1969).

Ethel Merman (above)—who became Dolly (left) in March 1970.

Dolly is a star role if ever there was one—in a musical, "Hello, Dolly!" which seems well set to become a legend.

Dolly Gallagher Levi, the matchmaker, is a larger-than-life character, anyway, perfectly suited to having seven stage lives at least. And since the show opened on Broadway, on January 16, 1964, seven remarkable actresses have incarnated the role, each with the special flavor of her own personality.

Dolly made her debut in New York in the person of Carol Channing, followed by Ginger Rogers, who played the role from August 1965 to February 1967; Martha Raye then took it over until July 1967; Betty Grable from July to November 1967; Pearl Bailey with an all-black cast from then until December 1969; and Phyllis Diller until March 1970.

Now, with Ethel Merman (above) giving Dolly another new lease of life, "Hello, Dolly!" has begun its reign as the longest playing musical ever on Broadway. It displaces the previous bearer of the crown, "My Fair Lady," which had held the record with 2,717 performances.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun.
As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage
questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

THE SERVICE GIRL

Dear Helen:

You have often said if you get enough requests for special columns you'll do a "command repeat." Have you had enough requests yet for "What is a Service Girl?"

My guy is leaving this month,
and I need it now. —SOON TO BE ONE

Dear Soon:

As a matter of fact, I've had more requests for repeats of this column than almost any other
"What is A?" published (except for Girl Friend, Boy Friend, and Teen-age Boy). Here it is:
WHAT IS A SERVICE GIRL?

There comes a time in every girl's life when she must lose something very dear to her heart, her boy friend; and for girls like us, it's usually because the man with the striped pants and tall hat calls our fellas to duty for their country.

When he just gets his orders,
you find yourself a little excited;
a guy in uniform is always appealing. And all that time on your own, being able to see your girl friends again, and going out stag—it's all so exciting. But then, as it gets nearer to the time
he must leave for basic training, you cram minutes into days and hours into minutes, and already you're feeling lonesome and sad.

Then he leaves. It's only for six weeks, you tell yourself, and of course he says he'll write every day. There's always an enormous scene: Mother's hugs, Father's orders and good wishes, numerous handshakes and your tears and farewell kisses.

The lonesome days now begin;
the nights are worse. You have terrible dreams. Every day you you run to the mailman (did you ever stop to think, we Service girls practically attack him for our mail?) Usually about two weeks go by before we hear, and he probably says:

"Darling, I really hate this place, the food is lousy, they work us too hard and I hardly get any sleep. It's like prison."

Your reaction is typically, "I hope he's not too tired or skinny,
and darn Uncle Sam for taking my guy!"

Before you know it, basic is over, and you've got a wonderful 15 days together. This period is usually shared with his friends,
family and you, in that order.

Then again it's time for him to go, and out of nowhere that miserable letter comes, telling you he's going to Vietnam. Right there your heart is numb and your hands grow cold. Why him?

He's only a kid!

Another leave, but this one is different from the rest because it's usually spent with you and his family only.

Of course the parting scene is worst of all. It's probably the worst moment in your life.
Immediately you begin counting the days till he returns. Every song, every familiar place brings tears. The first four months are the hardest. If you can see these through, you're a true Service girl.

His letters are wonderful, with always that sort of loneliness and sadness. You realize that without him there's no other guy.
I prefer to feel it's because we love these guys with all our hearts.

Finally you hit that precious
day. Now start getting ready.
Try to lose those few extra pounds, put back the glow in your cheeks and the stars in your eyes, cause he's on his way home!

Remember, girls, be patient with him. He's just spent a year in Hell, and it's a big adjustment for him to make. Chances are he'll be irritable and nervous and probably very jumpy. But always know, underneath, he's the same guy who left you a year ago and he loves you as much as you love him. —A.S.G.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble;
let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of (name of newspaper).

New TV Season Mixes
Copies and Hope

By JOAN CROSSBY

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—
To television's Doctors Gan-
non, Lochner, Craig, Stuart, Weiby and Kiley, add Doctors Goldstone, Pettit, Hardin, Barrin, Marsh and Thorpe.

To television's lawyers
Brian and Neil Darrell and Nichols, add Hansen, Sullivan, Barrett, Silverman and Walters.

To Mannix, add the Silent
Force.

To teachers Dixon, Endicott, Kincaid, etc., add Andy Thompson and so on.

It's an endless game, adding cowboys to cowboys,
detectives to detectives,
widows to widows, married
couples to married couples,
variety to variety and gimmicks to gimmicks.

Television's new season,
which begins on CBS and NBC on Sept. 14 and on ABC
on Sept. 20, is like all new seasons. There are copies and hope mixed in equal parts.

Here's a look at what the future holds through the looking glass of your TV set,
network by network:

ABC

The Young Rebels—It
sounds like it might be about a motorcycle gang zooming from campus revolution to campus revolution. But it's about young patriots in Chester, Pa., in 1777. The cast is unknown, with Rick Ely and Lou Gossett impressive. (60
minutes)

The Young Lawyers—Zal-
man King, destined to be a star, say all, and Judy Pace
are student lawyers in Massachusetts, where students are allowed to practice. Lee J. Cobb is the old lawyer, absolutely necessary to something like this. (60
minutes)

The Silent Force—A combination of Mission: Impossible and The Untouchables,
with Ed Nelson, Lynda Day
and Percy Rodrigues as government undercover agents
out to break up the Mafia—
oops, Cosa Nostra—oops, bad guys? (30 minutes)

Make Room for Grand-daddy—It's Danny Thomas back with his make-room-for-daddy gang. But they're older: Rusty is a father, Rosie Grier is new as Danny's accompanist. (30
minutes)

Dan August—Burt Reynolds stars in the action-adventure drama that has as much nonviolent violence in it as is possible to get past the watchdogs. It's a spin-off series from a made-for-TV movie that starred Chris George. Read on and you'll

The Partridge Family—A
delightful pilot should appeal
to all ages. Shirley Jones is
the widow lady whose kids
insist she join their singing group. They become, a la the Cowsills, a smash success.
An original song in each episode and a potential star in

Andy Griffith

Ralph Bellamy

Tony Randall

Lee J. Cobb

learn why Chris is not the star. (60 minutes)

Matt Lincoln—This is the series that asks the question: Is the public ready to welcome back Ben Casey—
oh, all right, Vince Edwards? He's assisted by Chelsea Brown, formerly of Laugh-In, and while he was a psychologist in the movie-
for-TV pilot, he's now a psychiatrist. But he and his aides man "hot lines," so people who need assistance can call for help. (60 minutes)

Barefoot in the Park—
Black cast (Scoey Mitchell,
Tracy Reed, Thelma Carpenter and Nipsey Russell) handles Neil Simon's Broadway hit. The pilot is one of the funniest ever, with some great dialogue ("Whoever said black is beautiful ain't never addressed this man,"
says Miss Carpenter of Russell) and a climax which turns the tables on white snobs with great wit. Miss Reed should become a star.
(30 minutes)

The Odd Couple—Or Neil
Simon on Two. Simon's best play is perfectly cast, with Jack Klugman (who replaced
Walter Matthau on Broadway) as the slob and Tony Randall as the fussbudget.
Monica Evans and Carol Shelley, the "Pigeon Sisters," repeat their roles in the series. (30 minutes)

The Immortal—This is the reason Chris George is not Dan August. He did two pilots and both sold. He chose to stay with this one—
a kind of fugitive in which our hero, whose blood makes him immune to disease, runs from those who would like his secret and are willing to kill to get it. (60 minutes)

The Partridge Family—A
delightful pilot should appeal
to all ages. Shirley Jones is
the widow lady whose kids
insist she join their singing
group. They become, a la the Cowsills, a smash success.
An original song in each episode and a potential star in

Herschel Bernardi

Vince Edwards

David Cassidy, who is Shirley's stepson in real life. (30
minutes)

The Most Deadly Game—
A bizarre killing takes place in the opener. Then a team headed by Ralph Bellamy,
George Maharis and Yvette
Mimieux sets out to solve it.
By golly, they do, too. The executive producer is Joan Harrison, who trained with Alfred Hitchcock and knows
her way around a plot twist.
(60 minutes)

The Tim Conway Show—A variety hour with the accent
on comedy and funny Tim.
(60 minutes)

Storefront Lawyers—Not
to be confused with The Young Lawyers, this one is about three young lawyers
just graduated to the bar.
They work for a rich firm which, when they're not working uptown, allows them to help the poor in a store in skid row. Three capable young actors head the cast:
Robert Foxworth (who did
"Sabbard" on CBS Playhouse
last year), Sheila Larkin and David Arkin. (60 minutes)

The Interns—Oh, what fun
it is to work in the hospital
where you can chase girls and nurses. Stephen Brooks, who was an intern in The Nurses, is still an intern. So are Chris Stone, Sandra

NBC
The Don Knotts Show—A variety show with the bewildered and funny skinny guy.
(60 minutes)

Four-In-One—A sneaky
way of getting four shows
on in one series: McCloud
(with Dennis Weaver), Night
Gallery (with Rod Serling),
San Francisco International (with Lloyd Bridges), and the Psychiatrist (with Roy Thinnies). (60 minutes)

The Flip Wilson Show—
See Tim Conway and Don
Knotts. (60 minutes)

Nancy—Subtitled "The President and J.J.," this is nevertheless a delight thanks to the two young people who play the leads: Renne Jarrett and John Fink. She's the daughter of the president, he's a vet. They meet and fall in love to the consternation of Celeste Holm, her guardian (yup, the president is a widower here) and Robert Simon, his uncle. But they get married around episode seven. (30 minutes)

The Red Skelton Show—
See Tim Conway, Don Knotts
and Flip Wilson. (30 minutes)

Additionally, some old friends have new looks. The law enforcers are gone from The Bold Ones and Hal Holbrook as the senator has been added. Cesar Romero

is marrying Lurene Tuttle
on Julia, Rudy Ramos is going to star in The High Chaparral. Bracken's World is now complete with a Bracken (Leslie Nielsen); Mitch Vogel will be in at least eight Bonanzas; The Virginian has become The Men from Shiloh with Stewart Granger and Lee Majors joining Jim Drury and Doug McClure; Alice Ghostley,
who is the disappearing
maid on Bewitched, will also be an appearing housekeeper on Mayberry R.F.D.; Ken Washington joins Hogan's Heroes, replacing Ivan Dixon; Doris Day
moves to the city; Walter Brennan turns up as the grandfather on To Rome
with Love; Lesley Warren replaces—well, you know
her name—on Mission: Impossible; Roger Torrey becomes Elly May's romance on Beverly Hillsbillies and Nancy Walker joins the Family Affair.

If none of this is to your pleasure, don't worry. The second season will begin in January.

One of the great woman bridge players of the early years of contract was Mary (Mrs. Emory) Clement of Baltimore. Mary always pretended that she knew nothing about the play of the dummy when actually she was one of the very best.

Her opening spade bid was correct by 1931 standards. It would still be correct today.

East's two-heart overcall improved North's hand so Louis Watson, another great player of the early '30s who sat North, cue bid in hearts and then jumped to the spade slam.

West opened the jack of diamonds. Mary won the dummy's king, drew dummy

with two leads and played dummy's jack of clubs.
There was no harm trying to sneak the king in if East did hold the club ace but West produced that card and continued with the queen of clubs.

Mary ruffed, led a heart
and finessed dummy's queen
after West carefully played the 10. Then she proceeded to run out dummy's trumps.
Since she had ruffed a club
earlier she was able to discard a heart on dummy's last trump.

By this time West had run out of discards. He had to hold on to the king and jack of hearts and was forced to let a diamond go in order to do this.

Mary made the last four tricks with dummy's ace of hearts and her ace, queen and six of diamonds. She smiled at Watson and asked, "Was that a squeeze?"

No Questions Asked

Many a conscientious husband seeks peace of mind by buying life insurance to protect his family in case he dies.

But he may also have a nagging worry: will the insurance company really pay off when the time comes, or will it find some flaw making the policy null and void?

To cut this worry to a minimum, most policies now contain what is known as an "incontestable clause." Under this clause, after a stated period (usually two years), the insurance company can no longer raise technical objections about the validity of the policy. It must generally pay off "with no questions asked."

Suppose, for example, that a man applying for insurance fails to mention the fact that he has a drinking problem. And suppose, after his death, the insurance company finds out about it. Under the incontestable clause, the company could not raise this point to escape paying the insurance to the widow.

In fact, the incontestable clause applies in most states even if the applicant told a deliberate lie. Take this case:

A man filling out an insurance application was asked if he was in good health. He said he was—even though he knew he had serious heart trouble.

After his death, the insurance company tried to cancel the policy on grounds of fraud. But a court ruled that, despite the fraud, the company would still have to pay off—because more than two years had gone by. As one judge explained:

"Even though dishonest people are given advantages under incontestable clauses, still the sense of security given to the great majority of honest policyholders makes it worth the cost."

But not even an incontestable clause will help if the fraud involves the very existence of the policy. Thus:

A man suffering from tuberculosis managed to get life insurance by sending a healthy friend to take the medical examination for him. After the man died, the insurance company found out about the trick and denied liability.

The widow tried to rely on the incontestable clause, but a court ruled that there had never been an insurance contract in the first place. The court said that on one basic fact, the identity of the insured person, there was never a "meeting of the minds."

NEW YORK (AP) — Sir John Gielgud was involved in a soft shoe routine. Sir Ralph Richardson rendered a dramatic "do-da-day" accompaniment to Carol Channing's version of "Camptown Races."

These were but two extraordinary events during Wednesday night's NBC special, Carol's "Mad English Tea Party," which since it was taped in London about the British seemed like an overseas adaptation of "Laugh-In."

Miss Channing and her guests frolicked all over the pages of English history. She played Queen Victoria, Anne Boleyn and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, among other characters. Fred MacMurray was Prince Albert, Prince Charming, Sherlock Holmes. Art Carney turned up as Dr. Jekyll, Dr. Watson and Francis Bacon.

Among all the actors and scenes, they used quantities of wigs, beards, mustaches and even suits of armor. There were recurring episodes of "The Hindyale Saga"—a broad spoof of the recent adaptation of the Galsworthy stories—in which Sir John played the butler and Sir Ralph, looking alarmingly like W. C. Fields, was the family physician.

It was a long series of sight gags, blackouts, puns, songs and tongue-twisters. The general level of humor may be illustrated by one typical blackout showing Queen Victoria and Prince Albert on a balcony, bowing stiffly to the cheers of an unseen crowd.

Bobcats in Victory at Prescott

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Last night at Prescott the Hope Bobcats overpowered the Prescott Curley Wolves 27-14, with a solid running game and fine passing combination.

Although plagued by penalties and fumbles, the Bobcats ground out yardage behind the good blocking of the offensive line and then completed the difficult passes when they were needed most.

Upping their record to 1-1, the Bobcats appear to be headed for another good season, with the next game at home against the Sheridan Yellow-Jackets.

Neither team could keep control of the ball for the first seven minutes but with 5:00 left in the first quarter, the Bobcats started a 51 yard drive that was climaxed by a two yard quarterback sneak by Ronnie Massanelli with 2 minutes left in the first quarter. Tim White's after touchdown attempt was good and Hope had a 7-0 lead.

Shortly thereafter, into the second period after Prescott had failed to make a first down, Bobcat Ray Wheelington returned a 60 yard punt to the Curley Wolves 5 yard line behind some beautiful blocking.

After three plays needed only a yard, Missanelli elected to pass on fourth down and a four yarder to Roger Newton plus White's second PAT gave Hope a 14-0 score with 6:55 left in the half.

Prescott came right back with a touchdown, aided by penalties to close the gap to 14-7 at the half. It looked as though the game might finish close, but the Cats figured a little different.

Taking the second half kick-off Ray Wheelington and Gary Don Jones ground out yardage for Hope, and with first and ten on the Bobcat 45 Newton broke tackles and romped 55 yards for a third Hope score. White's third extra point with 9:18 left, set the Bobcats at a 21-7 leading margin.

After exchanging possession of the ball on the kickoff, Hope was forced to punt, but a fumble was retrieved by Clifton Peevey, and Hope once again was in business.

Short yardage by Newton, Jones, and Steve Halton moved Hope to the Curley Wolves 18 and 6 plays later the last yard line, as Roger Newton followed his blocking into the end zone from four yards out, with 0:25 left in the third segment.

Three minutes later, with Hope at their own 20 yard line, Curley Wolfe Jeff Jordan picked up an enemy fumble and ran it in for the last score of the game. Duncan Culpepper's extra point was good for a 27-14 score with 8:55 remaining.

Both teams played pretty even the rest of the way. After the game Coach Higgins said that overall, the Bobcats looked much better, but they still had a long way to go.

The defense pressured Prescott all night forcing untimely passes and miscues while the offense had plenty of punch to score when they had a chance.

Next comes Sheridan and the Bobcats will be preparing next week for a rough home game before starting conference play the week after. The 'B' team will play against Magnolia, Monday night, at home.

For the Bobcats it's: VICTORY No. 1.

He may not be much good at anything else, but our ever-parched colleague is sure to win thirst prize at the company picnic.

Gibson Beats Seaver, Mets Lose Ground

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Bob Gibson-Tom Seaver duel was billed as a matchup between Cy Young Award winners but the St. Louis ace wasn't interested. His only concern was beating the New York Mets and he did so convincingly.

The hard-throwing right-hander stifled the Mets on five hits as the Cardinals whipped Seaver and his mates 5-2 Friday night, dropping the New Yorker's one-half game behind the East Division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who were idle.

The Chicago Cubs, another half-length back, also did not play.

New York newspapers headlined the meeting between Seaver, the 1969 Cy Young recipient and Gibson, the 1968 winner, the last two days.

"Seaver's a good pitcher," Gibson said. "But I don't carry on about him the way you guys do," referring to the writers.

"Not unless he's a real good hitter."

Seaver didn't do much hitting nor did any of his mates as Gibson rolled to his 21st victory of the season, striking out seven Mets. He has lost six. His lifetime mark over New York now stands at 24-7.

Seaver, 18-11, struck out 10 in six innings, increasing his season's total to 274, a National League record for right-handed pitchers. The righty however ran into trouble in one inning—the fourth—when the Cards scored four times. Jose Cardenal triggered the rally with a two-run double.

Cleon Jones had three of the hits off Gibson, running his hitting streak to 18 games.

In other NL games, San Diego edged Cincinnati 3-2, Houston nipped Atlanta 3-2, Montreal blanked Philadelphia 1-0 and San Francisco downed Los Angeles 4-3.

In the American League, Baltimore topped Boston 3-2 in 13 innings, Cleveland trimmed New York 3-2, Washington beat Detroit 4-2, Minnesota shut out Chicago 6-0, Oakland nudged Kansas City 3-0 and Milwaukee whipped California 2-1.

Nate Colbert snapped a 2-2 tie with his 31st homer in the seventh inning, backing the two-hit pitching of Pat Dobson in the Padres' triumph.

Dennis Menke rapped a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth inning, cracking a tie and giving the Astros their victory.

Carl Morton tossed a two-hitter and Gary Sutherland came through with an RBI eighth-inning single, giving the Expos right-hander his 16th victory. He has lost 10.

Tight relief pitching by Mike Davison and Don McMahon helped Juan Marichal, forced out of the game with stomach cramps in the seventh, gain his 11th victory as the Giants held off the skidding Dodgers.

Tall Player Has Picked Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Tom McMillen is safely registered and tucked away at the University of Maryland ending his odyssey of indecision.

"I am happy to be here," the 6-foot-11 Mansfield, Pa., High School basketball star said Thursday night. But then he headed for bed to fight a cold and physical and emotional fatigue.

McMillen was expected to head for the University of North Carolina this week to fulfill his letter of intent to attend that school.

Crockett in Congress

Davy Crockett, the famous Indian scout, was elected from Tennessee to the House of Representatives in 1826, 1828 and 1832. He was defeated in 1830, partly because of his opposition to Andrew Jackson's Indian Bill, which violated existing Indian treaties.

Eskimo men in Canada are blubbering because some of their lady folks are icily turning down male overtures. Canada's Indian Affairs people say one reason is that Eskimo women are increasingly adopting the mannerisms of white women. For example, say the Canadians, the Eskimo misses are aping the dress of actresses in American movies.

Hmmmm. Considering that movie dress is mostly undress, one would think that amid all the ice those Eskimo ladies would welcome every overture they can get. — Atlanta (Ga.) Journal

Gee, A Cockroach Race!

What was this business the other day? Wayne County deputies were called to an address where complaints said there was a disturbance. Officers arrived to find a crowd of happy, cheering, excited young men. They were having a cockroach race. Yeah, a COCKROACH RACE! They'd put the cockroaches in a cup, shake them up and dump them out. The roach making it to a given line first was proclaimed the winner.

What do you know about that! It could catch on and become a national thing. Might even end up with a Cockroach Rose Bowl, with a queen and everything. We can see it now: "Here she comes, Miss Cockroach of 1975!" On second thought, maybe we'd might just as well forget it. — Goldsboro (N. C.) News-Argus

High Schools Becoming Front Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — High schools are becoming the front line of protest for young Mexican-Americans, most of whom never make it to college, says a specialist for the Senate's Equal Educational Opportunity Committee.

Eighty per cent of all Mexican-Americans drop out before they finish high school, said Josue Gonzalez as Mexican-American groups began preparing evidence they hope will convince the President's Commission on Campus Unrest to expand its probe to secondary schools.

At school after school in the Southwest, high school Chicanos or Mexican-Americans are walking out in protest of what they consider humiliating, insensitive and "anglicizing" treatment by teachers, Gonzalez said.

The National Mexican-American Anti-Defamation Committee asked the commission to look into the growing protest movement by young chicanos. Specifically, the commission was urged to investigate last month's Mexican-American anti-war march in Los Angeles which ended in a riot with three persons dead.

The commission, which was appointed by President Nixon following the death of six students in Ohio and Mississippi campuses, said it had planned no further hearings, but urged the Mexican-American group to document the plight of young chicanos.

The job was begun here this week when some upper-level Mexican-Americans in the federal government sat down with young militants and such liaison workers as Armando Nick Reyes, chairman of the anti-defamation committee.

Don Morales, assistant to J. Stanley Pottinger, civil rights chief in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said "all of Washington is oriented to the black and the white," with no attention for the chicanos with their very real—but different—civil rights problems.

"The Civil Rights Act of 1964 never was interpreted to mean Mexican-American," Morales said.

"The federal government never took the appropriate action to cut off funds because of discrimination against our group," he said.

Palestinian Arab guerrillas, key factor in Mideast turmoil, are divided into a dozen groups of varying strength and methods. Most prominent are AI Fatah, the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) and the Popular Democratic Front (PDF). The extremist PFLP is responsible for the sensational air hijackings and call for attacking Israel's friends, particularly the United States.

Special Group Gave Funds to Lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mysterious fund-raising group set up 2,450 miles away in California gave $3,500 in campaign contributions for a Baltimore congressman who heads the House committee on ship subsidies.

No trace of the special campaign group could be found at the address given for it in downtown San Francisco.

The contributions were given to a campaign committee for Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md., chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee.

The donations came in 1968 when Garmatz was locked in a tough battle for re-election in the primary for Baltimore's waterfront district.

Secret records in the Justice Department have shown $1,500 in illegal campaign contributions also were given for Garmatz that same year by two San Francisco shipping firms in another case. The companies pleaded guilty in federal court earlier this year to violations of the Corrupt Practices Act, which forbids corporate campaign contributions.

The latest disclosure came from campaign records on file with a court clerk in Baltimore, listing a lump sum of $3,500 as given by the "Pacific Coast Committee for Re-election of E. A. Garmatz, 311 California St., San Francisco, Calif."

Garmatz had no immediate comment.

The mystery committee did not file reports in either Maryland, California, or Congress. Various loopholes in reporting laws exempted it in each case.

The donors to the committee remain unidentified.

The office building at 311 California St. in San Francisco's banking district includes a number of firms associated with shipping. But all of these denied any knowledge of a campaign committee set up for a Baltimore congressman.

The 1966 report of the campaign treasurer for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., who is the top-ranking Republican on Garmatz' House committee, also listed a contribution from a "Maritime Good Government Club" at 311 California St.

It could not be located at that address, either. No amount was given for the Mailliard donation.

Mailliard, from San Francisco, was also on the list of 16 congressmen and senators named in Justice Department files as benefiting from illegal contributions of the two shipping firms, American President Lines and Pacific Far East Lines.

These contributions, made through a special bank account set up in the name of a public relations man, were believed to be unrelated to the two mystery committees, however.

Both American President and Pacific Far East Lines once had their headquarters at 311 California. But a building spokesman said both moved long before 1966.

West Memphis Gets Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Economic Development Administration has awarded a technical assistance study grant to West Memphis for investigating the possibility of creating industrial sites and locating a Mississippi River port at West Memphis. The announcement was made Thursday by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark.

Agnew Stresses the Issue of Disorder

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — President Nixon sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew out on the Republican campaign circuit with a word-of-advice: Stress the issue of disorder in the streets and campuses because Americans don't want "a bunch of radicals" using violence as a path to power.

Disclosing this at political rallies in Illinois and Wyoming Thursday, Agnew said:

"The issue is whether a free people operating under a free and representative system of government will continue to govern the United States, or whether they will cede that power to some of the people, the irresponsible people, the law-breakers on the streets and campuses and their followers, their sycophants, and the people who subscribe to their activities behind the scenes, the radical liberals."

So, denouncing "the radicals" in a newly coined name for the faction he said has taken control of the Democratic party, Agnew heads today for San Diego to urge support for the re-election of Republican Sen. George Murphy of California.

In Casper, Agnew plugged for votes for Rep. John Wood, challenging Wyoming's Democratic Sen. Gale W. McGee; in Springfield, Ill., he did his bit for Sen. Ralph T. Smith, who faces a difficult contest against Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, state treasurer.

Recalling his White House sendoff Thursday, Agnew said he and the President discussed radical violence and its campaign impact, relating:

"...And the President said to me 'That's the issue. And in my judgment the people of the United States like this free system we have. They like the idea that the people who are governing this country are to be elected and not designated by a bunch of radicals in the streets or in the campuses, and that's the way they want to keep it.'"

In an address to some 3,500 people at a rally as the Casper Fairgrounds Agnew said "radical congressmen... have begun a mad scramble to the center" because they found their views at variance with those of the voters.

He quoted Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien as criticizing "extreme and irresponsible statements" by some Democrats.

"He realizes that when it comes to weakness and permissiveness, that dove has turned into an albatross," the vice president said.

Rockefeller Speaks Well of Bumpers

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller described Dale Bumpers Thursday as a "fine, honest, attractive young man." Rockefeller said that if he were a Democrat he could be enthusiastic about his Democratic opponent in the general election.

Republican Rockefeller used the word "attractive" several times in a news conference to describe Bumpers, but said he was confident he could defeat the new Democratic nominee in November.

He declined, however, to say whether Bumpers' candidacy gave him worry.

Asked if Bumpers was the beneficiary of a large anti-Faubus vote in his runoff victory Tuesday over former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, Rockefeller replied:

"I distinctly think it was an anti-Faubus vote. Remember, you've got a predominance of Democrats in the state of Arkansas."

"I think they were so refreshed to have a fine, honest, attractive young man who might come in and give the Democratic party that which they have been denied for 16 years."

He described Bumpers as a "man more people could rally about than the defeated candidate."

A newsman remarked that if all of this is true, the November vote might bode ill for the governor.

But Rockefeller said that while many Democrats were happy they had a "clean personality" to offer in the general election, they still had to ask themselves whether Bumpers or Rockefeller would do the most for the state.

"I hope the people are not going to forget what the past four years (under his administration) has produced," Rockefeller said.

He said he was prepared to stand on his record. He said the line would be drawn in the general election campaign between what he has done and proposes to do for the state and how Bumpers proposes to solve Arkansas' problems.

Asked to rate Bumpers as an opponent, Rockefeller said:

"I've been accused of being a lousy speaker and this, that and the other through the years. I don't know what I can muster the spontaneous enthusiasm that he has mustered to date. But when you have to put a little salt and pepper in that spontaneous enthusiasm, it may slow down his ease of presenting problems."

The governor's remark was an acknowledgement of Bumpers' ability as a speaker and a criticism that Bumpers has not put any substance into his campaign talk.

Asked if he had rather have faced Faubus, Rockefeller replied that this was a "totally moot" question.

Hurricane Veers, Still a Threat

By GARY GARRISON

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Ella, her winds increased to 115 miles an hour, took a twisting course toward the Mexican Gulf Coast today. The Weather Bureau said in a pre-midnight bulletin that the big storm was headed toward Soto la Marina, about 100 miles south of Brownsville, but that its westward movement of less than 10 m.p.h. made its course "very erratic."

Tides up to 8 feet and rains of 10 inches were expected to whip ashore with the hurricane.

With hurricane-force winds extending from the hurricane's center outward 50 miles, Brownsville and much of the Texas coast to the north expected hammering gales.

The Weather Bureau advised all persons to vacate Gulf of Mexico beaches and said small craft should stay ashore.

As hurricane Ella moved closer Friday night, storm shelters began to fill with coastal residents fleeing before the deadly winds and tides.

The Texas Department of Public Safety activated its emergency operating center at Austin and the National Guard was put on a standby basis.

Cyclamates Still Sold in Stores

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Products containing cyclamates, the artificial sweetener banned by the government as a possible source of cancer, still dot the shelves of the nation's food stores one week after they were supposed to be cleared off.

An Associated Press survey of supermarkets, neighborhood stores and health food stores in eight cities across the country turned up products containing cyclamates in 21 of the 36 stores checked.

Most managers of the stores said the presence of the products, banned as of Sept. 1, was an oversight.

Miss Lillie Was First Woman Voter, First to Hold County Office

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer
The year was 1920 and the Hempstead County Courthouse was temporarily located in Hope where the Hope Auto Company is today. Miss Lillie Middlebrooks was working in the county clerk's office when the telegram from Little Rock was received telling of the passage of the 19th Amendment and, therefore, the right for women in the USA to vote.

She stepped across the hall to the sheriff's office and announced that she wanted to pay her poll tax. Luke Monroe was in the office and said, "But Miss Lillie, that won't do you any good. You can't vote."

Thereupon she produced the telegram and said, "I can now."

He picked up the sheet of yellow paper, read the message, and issued her a receipt for her poll tax payment. What else was there to do!

A few years later this first woman in Hempstead County to vote was also the first one to hold a political office. She won the office of County Treasurer over 7 men who were also seeking the office, and she held that position

Corn Blight to Bring No Food Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level Agriculture Department official has predicted no nationwide food shortage will result from the widespread corn blight.

"The idea is fantastic," the official said. "There is no chance of a food shortage in this country because of the blight."

The official made the statement Thursday. The Agriculture Department will release late today its closely guarded monthly report on crop production which is expected to shed the most definitive light on the 1970 corn situation.

The corn crop has been damaged severely by dry weather in key growing areas. But it is a fungus disease called Southern leaf blight that has sent grain markets into a frenzy and fanned rumors the nation may face a food shortage.

No one knows for sure how much damage has been done to the nation's most important crop, worth $5 billion a year simply as grain. But today's report should help.

The monthly crop report is one of the most carefully guarded secrets routinely distributed in Washington. It is prepared behind locked doors and then delivered under armed escort to a room where at a given signal it is released to the news media.

The security measures are taken to prevent leaks which might affect markets or give an advantage to speculators.

No farm commodity approaches corn for its impact on the life style demanded by today's Americans. It sets the pace for all feed grains used in producing livestock, poultry and dairy products.

Should this year's crop be devastated by the blight as much as first suggested by scientists and grainmen meeting in Athens, Ga., on Aug. 14—some thought up to half the crop might be lost—the country could be in serious trouble.

But more recent estimates by private traders and others point to a blight damage of less than 10 per cent nationally.

Dry weather has reduced expected yields considerably already. In July the department expected a record large crop of more than 4.8 billion bushels.

Last month, before the blight reports gained national attention, the estimate was reduced to less than 4.7 billion.

Recent private estimates have been in the range of 4.2 billion to 4.4 billion bushels.

Despite the attention focused on today's report, experts say the true picture of blight damage and drought effects will not be known until the fall corn harvest is in full swing throughout the midwestern corn belt.

for 2 terms, or a total of 4 years. It was unheard of for anyone to ask for a third term!

On August 26, 1920, the 19th Amendment was ratified, so this week's election marked the 50th anniversary of voting by women in the USA. Such civic-minded and public-spirited women as Miss Lillie have always taken advantage of their privilege and exercised their franchise to vote.

Others are still new at expressing themselves at the polls. This year a woman in the county who is well past retirement age registered to vote for the first time, after much urging by a neighbor. Still others are registering to vote for the first time because they have just reached the age of 21.

Going to the polls, you will probably see more women than men holding down the positions necessary to carry out the functions of a polling place. This is for two reasons. One, a housewife is better able to give an entire day (and part of the night) to such duties; and two, a woman is better fitted for carrying out the detailed actions necessary.

A few months ago the syndicated columnist Don Oakley outlined the ways that giving the women of our country the right to vote had benefitted the nation. He acknowledged the fact that the goals of outlawing war and abolishing corruption had not been achieved by the women voters. He then added, "But in a multitude of ways over the past half-century, they have taught us all what American democracy is all about."

Cigarette Smoking Self Destruction

By JOHN PHILIP SOUSA
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The nation's chief health officer says cigarette smoking is a kind of self-destruction and urges movies, television and the stage to quit giving it "glamour appeal" for the young.

"The time is ripe for government and voluntary groups to mount a more vigorous program on all fronts to portray smoking as what it really is—a dirty, smelly, foul, chronic form of suicide," Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld said Thursday.

He told the first National Conference on Smoking and Health that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Veterans Administration and the Department of Defense have adopted a new policy on smoking in federal hospitals.

"Under this policy we are restricting the sale of cigarettes to canteens, eliminating free distribution of cigarettes, limiting smoking areas and strengthening our educational efforts to both staff and patients," Steinfeld said.

HEW and other government agencies want to encourage smokers to quit, he said, and nonsmokers, particularly the young, not to start.

"One thing we can be sure of," Steinfeld said, "is that when we discourage cigarette smoking among our youth we are not driving them to smoke marijuana or take up other drugs."

Evidence currently available, he added, points to the opposite conclusion.

Steinfeld said Hollywood is partly responsible, together with the advertising business, for the fact that smoking has become an integral part of the American social scene.

"How often in the movies have we seen a cigarette held to the lips of a dying man?" he asked. "Cigarettes have also become useful as a bit of stage business, lighting up or crushing them out being used to underscore an actor's mood."

He suggested motion pictures, television and theater use cigarettes less frequently in dramatic situations to "lessen their glamour appeal particularly to impressionable youth."

Guerrillas Free More Hostages

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
More than 100 hostages held by Arab guerrillas in three hijacked planes in the Jordanian desert left the dusty airstrip today for Amman and a guerrilla official said more were to be released through the day.

"Oh, we are so relieved to be through with this," said a blonde schoolgirl leaning out the window of an army bus as it left for Jordan's capital city.

The first busload to leave the dusty airstrip 25 miles north of the Jordanian capital contained 22 British schoolchildren who were aboard a British Overseas Airlines Corp. plane that was hijacked Wednesday, sources said.

They added that women would be the first of the other passengers to go to Amman.

Sixty-six of the hijacked passengers flew to freedom in Cyprus on Friday and 20 others headed for Beirut after being released from their sweltering plane in the desert.

The guerrilla sources who reported the start of the new move to Amman from the airstrip said all American Jews would be brought to hotels in the capital with women and children holding Israeli passports. But Israeli men of military age would be kept in a separate "special hotel," the sources said.

The guerrillas emphasized that the transfer of the hostages to Amman does not mean they will be released, but that they will be in more comfortable circumstances than before.

The central committee of the Palestinian Liberation Organization—nominally in control of all guerrilla groups—announced Friday that all the hijack victims still aboard the planes would be brought immediately to Amman. But the splinter Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which hijacked the planes, did not go along with the decision and the hostages spent the night cooped up in their aircraft.

For many of the victims, it was the sixth night in the desert. Two of the planes, a Swissair DC3 and a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, were hijacked to the airstrip Sunday as they were leaving from European points for New York. A British Overseas Airways Corp. VC10 was hijacked over the Persian Gulf on Wednesday on a flight from Bombay to London.

The hijackers have threatened to blow up the planes by 10 p.m. EDT today unless their demands for the release of seven commandos held in Switzerland, West Germany and Britain are met. There were reports that the Palestinians had abandoned their deadline, but a spokesman in Amman insisted "it still stands."
